ii) Valuation of derivatives:

Fair value based on market quotations

iii) Valuation of inventories:

Inventories are mainly stated at cost determined primarily by the weighted-average method. (Balance sheet amounts are written down based on any decline in profitability.)

i) Property, plant and equipment (excluding leased assets):

Mainly declining-balance method (Straight-line method is applied for buildings (excluding structures attached to buildings) acquired by the Company and certain domestic subsidiaries on or after April 1, 1998.)

Useful lives mainly are as follows:

Buildings and structures -------15 – 47 years

For the calculation of the retirement benefit obligation, the Company attributes the expected retirement benefit to the service period of employees by the benefit formula basis.
Actuarial differences are amortized over a five-year period, which is within the average remaining service period of employees, using the straight-line method from the fiscal year when the difference was generated. (Changes in Accounting Policies)

Adoption of the Revised Accounting Standards

Effective from the beginning of FY 2016, the Company adopted the “Revised Accounting Standard for Business Combinations” (Accounting Standards Board of Japan (ASBJ) Statement No.21, issued September 13, 2013, hereinafter referred to as the “Accounting Standard for Business Combinations”), “Revised Accounting Standard for Consolidated Financial Statements” (ASBJ Statement No.22, issued September 13, 2013, hereinafter referred to as the “Accounting Standard for Consolidation”) and “Revised Accounting Standard for Business Divestitures” (ASBJ Statement No.7, issued September 13, 2013, hereinafter referred to as the “Accounting Standard for Business Divestitures”).

In applying these revised accounting standards, the Company records any differences arising from changes in ownership interest in a subsidiary when it retains control as capital surplus and the corresponding acquisition-related costs are recognized as expenses when incurred. Also, regarding business combinations conducted after the beginning of FY 2016, the disclosure method was revised with regard to the retrospective adjustment of purchase price allocation based on provisional accounting applicable to the consolidated financial statements of the fiscal period in which the business combination occurred. In addition, the presentation method of net income was amended and the reference to “minority interests” was changed to “non-controlling interests”.

Concerning the application of the Accounting Standard for Business Combinations and others, based on the provisional treatment set out in Section 58-2(4) of the Accounting Standard for Business Combinations, in Section 44-5(4) of the Accounting Standard for Consolidation and in Section 57-4(4) of the Accounting Standard for Business Divestitures, these changes are effective from the beginning of FY 2016. The impact of these changes on operating income, ordinary income and income before income taxes for FY 2016 and capital surplus as of the end of FY 2016 is immaterial.

Financial instruments

1. Overview of financial instruments

In principle, fund management is limited to deposits with financial institutions with high credit ratings and risk-free bonds, and financing is obtained primarily through borrowings from banks. With regard to credit risk generated by notes and accounts receivable-trade, each business department not only controls and manages account due dates and balances, but also confirms the credit standing of major customers periodically, making efforts to identify doubtful accounts as early as possible.

Regarding securities and investments in securities, the Company regularly determines their fair value and the financial situation of the issuing companies. For stocks, the Company also continually reviews the stock holding status, considering its relationship with the issuing companies. All derivative transactions are entered into for the purpose of hedging risks arising in the ordinary course of business, and there are no derivative transactions entered into for trading or speculative purposes.

2. Fair value of financial instruments

As of March 31, 2016, the book value, fair value and the difference between the two of financial instruments are as follows:

(Note 1) Method for calculating fair value of financial instruments, and notes regarding securities and derivative transactions

Assets

(1) Cash and time deposits, and (2) Notes and accounts receivable-trade

These are settled within a short time, and their fair value and book value are nearly equal. Thus, the book value is listed as the fair value in the table above.

(3) Securities and investments in securities

These consist mainly of stocks, quoted bonds and negotiable certificates of deposit. The fair value of stocks is based on prices quoted on stock exchanges, while the fair value of bonds is based on either prices quoted on the exchanges or prices provided by counterparty financial institutions. Negotiable certificates of deposit are settled within a short time, and their fair value and book value are nearly equal. Thus, the book value is listed as the fair value in the table above.

(4) Long-term loans

The fair value of long-term loans is calculated based on future cash flow discounted at an appropriate rate, such as mid-term and long-term interest rates with credit spreads, for all loans grouped by a certain period of time and credit rating under the credit exposure management.

Liabilities

(1) Notes and accounts payable-trade, (2) Short-term borrowings, (3) Accounts payable-other, (4) Accrued expenses and (5) Accrued income taxes

These are settled within a short time, and their fair value and book value are nearly equal. Thus, the book value is listed as the fair value in the table above.

(6) Long-term debt

The fair value of long-term debt is calculated based on a present value of principal and interest, discounted at an expected rate for new borrowings with the same terms.

Derivative transactions

Assets and liabilities arising from derivative transactions are presented in the table above. Total net payables are shown in parenthesis.

(Note 2) Non-listed stocks (book value: ¥34,999 million) whose fair value is extremely difficult to calculate because no market value is available and future cash flows cannot be estimated are not included in “(3) Securities and investments in securities”.
